

March 2016

Winners of the 2015 Mayor's Community Service Awards. From Left, Jeff Strom, Lanny Pratt, Kyle Olson, Mayor Rasmussen, Al Kaderabek, Lois Ahern.

Everywhere you look in Albert Lea, you can see the results of volunteer work. The boathouse at Brookside was donated and then constructed by volunteers. Community members raised funds and worked to restore the Cottage at Edgewater Park. Volunteers also adopt parks to clean, plant flowers and maintain buildings.

Volunteering is...

a great way to enhance your resume

You can acquire on-the-job training and boost your skill set by volunteering.

Organizations in Albert Lea have a wide range of opportunities, from office management to carpentry and everything in between.

If you're looking to get involved, call the City of Albert Lea at 507-377-4316.

a great way to create and build relationships

You'll meet people with similar interests through volunteering. Developing a larger network can have both social and professional benefits.

The greatest resource in Albert Lea is our people!

a great way to strengthen our community

The time you spend each month with an organization can help move our community forward. One example is the "Rock the Block" event happening this spring. The Albert Lea HRA, United Way, Habitat for Humanity and Shinefest, a faith-based organization made up of volunteers of local churches, fix up homes for residents in need.
